BETWEEN WORLDS SCHOOL

WALKING WITH WOLVES

Level III | Intensive Shamanic Training

Bringing Back the Medicine — Community & Ceremony

Five days · Four nights · Dates and location to be announced

An immersive culmination of advanced healing, ceremonial leadership, and responsible service to community.

An Invitation to Bring Back the Medicine

The path of the Wolf has taught us to listen, to journey, and to deepen our relationships with helping spirits, the land, and one another. Now we ask what it means to carry those teachings with integrity into the wider world.

Level III gathers the learning of our foundational and immersive training into a practice of service. Through advanced spiritual healing, shared ceremony, mentorship, and reflection, students explore how to support others while honouring consent, cultural boundaries, humility, and their own limits.

The Three Stars of Intensive Training

Soul Retrieval & Restoration

Advanced principles of soul retrieval, spiritual restoration, integration and supportive aftercare within the school's teaching framework.

Ceremonial Leadership & Sacred Responsibility

Designing and facilitating meaningful ceremony, group agreements, consent, accessibility and care for participants.

Community Practice & Living Service

Community listening, collaborative leadership, ethical practice, accountability and carrying the teachings home.

Intensive Teachings

Restoration & Advanced Healing

Soul retrieval principles and supported practice; spiritual understandings of loss and restoration; discernment, informed consent, integration and appropriate referrals.

Holding the Circle

Ceremonial preparation, opening and closing sacred space, group dynamics, inclusion, boundaries, conflict awareness and responsible facilitation.

The Community Practitioner

Listening to community needs, working collaboratively, respecting local cultural protocols, protecting privacy and knowing when not to lead.

The Living Medicine

Relationship with land, ancestry and future generations; reciprocity, sustainable ceremony, personal authenticity and ongoing spiritual practice.

The Five-Day Journey

Day One — Returning with the Medicine

Reunion and reflections on Level II practice; intention, readiness and community agreements. Review spiritual allies, practitioner ethics, scope and consent. Demonstration of an advanced session and group facilitation. Learning record: readiness reflection, personal learning goals and ethical scenario.

Day Two — Restoration of the Spirit

Soul retrieval and restoration within the school's spiritual framework; demonstration, preparation, integration and aftercare. Supported triads and instructor feedback, with alternatives to receiving work. Learning record: supervised practice reflection, witness feedback and integration plan.

Day Three — Holding the Sacred Circle

The responsibilities of ceremonial leadership; invitation, consent, accessibility, group dynamics and respectful cultural boundaries. Small teams design and rehearse a ceremony. Learning record: ceremony plan, safety and inclusion checklist, peer review.

Day Four — Medicine for the Community

Community listening, land relationship, intergenerational responsibility and reciprocity. Student teams facilitate supported ceremonies and reflect on group needs and boundaries. Learning record: facilitation observation, community intention and feedback.

Day Five — Bringing Back the Medicine

Final integrative practicum, individual reflections, peer accountability and a closing ceremony. Students identify next steps for responsible community practice. Learning record: final competency review, community service proposal and 30/60/90-day integration plan.

The Generations Yet to Come

Our practice is shaped by those who came before us and by the world we leave for those who follow. We reflect on the relationships, stories, ceremonies and responsibilities we wish to carry forward, with care for the children and communities of tomorrow. This teaching does not constitute training to work directly with minors.

Learning, Practice & Certification

Proposed completion evidence includes supervised practice records, an ethical decision reflection, a written group ceremony plan, observed facilitation, a community service proposal and an integration journal. The teaching circle will assess demonstrated competence, consent practices, discernment and readiness for independent work within appropriate limits.

Admission follows completion of Levels I and II and review of designated community practice and casework. Certification is not automatic with attendance; additional supported practice or an individual completion plan may be required. Final requirements will be confirmed before enrollment.

Successful students may receive a school-issued Level III Intensive Shamanic Training Certificate, marking completion of the core three-level Walking with Wolves pathway. This is not a regulated healthcare credential, professional licence or guarantee of insurance eligibility.

Continuing Community

Learning continues through personal practice and access to monthly Between Worlds community calls, informed by the original year-long Wolf program and online teachings from previous years. Specific access terms will be confirmed at enrollment. The separate Eagle Advanced Gatherings offer a possible later path for eligible experienced practitioners; they are not part of Level III.

Training Investment

ENROLLMENT	TUITION (CAD)
Early enrollment Deadline to be announced	$1,250
Regular enrollment After early enrollment deadline	$1,450

All-inclusive residential tuition covers five days of teaching, four nights of accommodation, meals, refreshments, learning materials, ceremonies, guided journeys, supervised practice and teaching-circle guidance.

One-, two- or three-installment payment arrangements may be available following an introductory conversation. Prices are proposed; final deadlines and payment terms will be confirmed before registration opens.

Location, Accommodation & Travel

The retreat dates, community and venue will be announced. The program is designed as a residential gathering, with shared time for meals, ceremony and integration. Room arrangements, dietary needs and accessibility considerations will be discussed individually.

Airport Transportation

We are happy to help coordinate rides from the nearest major airport to the retreat centre, including shared rides and carpooling when possible. Availability and any costs will be confirmed in advance; transport is not included in tuition.

Non-Residential Attendance

Students living nearby or arranging their own accommodation may inquire about non-residential participation. Availability and tuition may vary according to venue and meal arrangements; pricing will be confirmed individually before registration.

How to Apply & Prepare

Applicants will be invited to submit their previous training and practice records, complete an introductory conversation or agreed video introduction, and receive an admission decision. Accepted students will complete the required waivers and preparation forms before payment and arrival details are finalized.
